PERIO PROTECT

Perio Tray

Perio Tray therapy can be a convenient and minimally invasive approach to combat and prevent the recurrence of periodontal disease—especially when patients present with generalized pocketing or struggle with maintenance, as well as in cosmetic, restorative, or geriatric cases.

Patients are prescribed a custom-made Perio Tray to wear at home that delivers a low concentration of hydrogen peroxide-based Perio Gel deep into their periodontal pockets—up to 9 mm. Wearing the Perio Tray for just 10 to 15 minutes at a time establishes an oxygen-rich environment that simultaneously debrides pathogens and encourages wound healing.

"The Perio Tray is a wonderful product, a tremendous tool to help with nonsurgical treatment," said R. Bruce Cochrane, DDS. "The tray delivery also provides the most effective way to run periodontal maintenance. Its absolute biggest benefit is the reduction in bleeding and inflammation." In a long-term study of Dr. Cochrane's own refractory maintenance patients, bleeding on probing dropped 75% after adding Perio Trays to patient home care. These reductions were maintained for the 5-year duration of the study.

Controlled clinical trials show that using Perio Tray in conjunction with scaling and root planing (SRP) procedures achieves better results than with SRP alone, including reduced pocket depths. Another benefit is softened calculus both above and below the gumline, which leads to more efficient appointments. During prophylaxis, for example, hygienists get better optics with less bleeding that might hinder their sight.

"Perio Protect transformed how I treat patients with chronic periodontitis," said Lou Graham, DDS. "So many patients—restorative, implant, geriatric—get healthier with Perio Tray therapy."

Perio Tray is the only tray cleared by the FDA to place medicaments deep into periodontal pockets. It is also the only tray supported by controlled clinical trial data and microbiological research.
